Living and Dying in the 19th Century Film Season:
Wilde

(1997; certificate 15); (118 mins approx)

The story of Oscar Wilde, genius, poet and playwright. The self-realization of his homosexuality caused Wilde enormous torment as he juggled marriage, fatherhood and responsibility with his obsessive love for Lord Alfred Douglas. After legal action instigated by Bosie's father, the enraged Marquise of Queensberry, Wilde refused to flee the country and was sentenced to two years at hard labour by the courts of an intolerant Victorian society. With Stephen Fry.

Free but £3 donation welcomed, ticket required.
